
Report on the lunch time activities around Makerere university

Researcher's Details

KATAMBA
SAMUEL—14/U/23285/PS

1 Introduction

Report on the lunch time activities around Makerere university

2 Problem statement

There is a lot of data that is not catered for regarding lunch time activities of various students at Makerere university. This data has not been processed and analyzed into meaningful information that can help the university in the proper planning of its students

3 Aim and Objectives

3.1 General Objectives

To investigate what student do exactly during lunch time in terms on non-academic related activities

3.2 Specific Objectives

- To find out how people spend on lunch time
- To find out where people have lunch from and the reasons why they have lunch from there.

4 Scope of Study

The research was carried out on Makerere university students during lunch time at the main campus.

5 Significance of Study

- The study is important in the way that it will help different stake holders in implementing better policies for students' lunch time.
- The study is important in the away that you are able to find out other activities done at lunch rather than just having lunch

6 Methodology

6.1 Electronic Questionnaire

A questionnaire was roughly designed on paper then transferred to the app-engine online

The electronic questionnaire or data collection was built using open data kit online and was uploaded online to the app-engine services

For ODK app on the smart phones helped to carry the forms with easy because data was recorded and stored there and then.

7 Conclusion

The data was collected from various people though resistance was meant Students refused to take picture involving various places and activities being done.

It was noted that during lunch time, it is not only time to find out what to eat but also to do a bunch of ideas